Watchful Policy Needed

In the mass of material that has already been submitted and is still being presented to the Royal Commission Dominion-provincial relations there is danger of some matters of considerable importance to the west being overlooked because of lack of emphasis, or at least side-tracked as comparatively insignificant when balanced against the more overwhelming issues of finance and divisions of legislative and administrative responsibility.

One of these problems which is apt to get the "miss in" because of the absence of the spectacle is that of assistance in the further development of the Hudson Bay route and for aid in promoting additional business for the direct and short pathway between the Canadian west and European markets submitted at the Regina sitting of the Commission by the On-to-the-Bay association as a section of the Saskatchewan Government brief.

A Five-Year Plan

The Association asked that consideration be given to proposals that the Federal government absorb the differential in marine insurance rates at between the Bay route and the Lake and Rail route via Montreal, to place rates between Winnipeg and Great Britain on a competitive basis, for a period of five years.

The Association also requested the Federal government to establish a modern coal handling plant at Churchill equipped with necessary facilities, wharf scales and other equipment to ensure prompt and economic discharge of incoming cargoes of Welsh anthracite coal and the installation of additional storage facilities, such as at Churchill, and other places such as Hudson Bay Junction and The Pas to facilitate the storage and breaking of bulk of merchandise for the wholesale and retail trade in Manitoba and Saskatchewan cities.

Marine Insurance Rates

There is a good deal to be said in furtherance of these requests, much more than was contained in the brief and considerably more than appears herein in this column.

In respect to the first request it should be pointed out, however, that if marine insurance rates and storage facilities. The provision of such facilities would not only tend to make feasible inbound cargoes of Welsh coal and merchandise but would go a long way towards promoting the export of lumber for pill posts, for which there is a demand in the United States, and, of which there is plenty on Western Canadian farms and for which there is also a market in Great Britain.

The provision of intermediate storage sheds would undoubtedly go a long way towards popularizing the Hudson Bay route with wholesalers and retailers in the centres of at least two of the prairie provinces as it would enable them to combine shipments, break bulk at interior points and secure the consignments in less than carload quantities at local points, provided the government is prepared to furnish such service at nominal cost for a period. It would also make consignees to combine purchases and shipments on an economic basis.

An Economic Proposition

Increased volume of traffic in both directions is also the objective of the requests for coal handling and storage facilities. The provision of such facilities would not only tend to make feasible inbound cargoes of Welsh coal and merchandise but would go a long way towards promoting the export of lumber for pill posts, for which there is a demand in the United States, and, of which there is plenty on Western Canadian farms and for which there is also a market in Great Britain.

It would also make consignees to combine purchases and shipments on an economic basis.

Criticism Unwarranted

During the past few months, at the expense of the Hudson Bay route has been indulged in by some of the Eastern press, the inference being left that the system is somewhat of a white elephant, that it will be a long time, if ever, before it can stand on its own feet and that the East has had to bear the brunt of its construction and is now called upon to finance its maintenance.

It is true that the railway is not yet paying its way, but the critics failed to point out that during the whole period it has been operating the west has been suffering from the combined shock of world economic depression with crop failures superimposed as an additional handicap, with the result that comparatively little export grain has been available for bound cargoes via the H.B. route and the purchasing ability for incoming commodities has been severely curtailed.

As for the East bearing the cost of construction, this inference was badly shattered when the On-to-the-Bay association drew to the attention of the Commission that 49 per cent. of the $53,000,000 value of the project including terminal was financed by the sale of the Hudson Bay route in the Western lands collected in cash "and" to quote the brief, "as there is still over twenty millions unpaid on contracts, it is possible that a further substantial sum may be realized."

Live Interest Advisable

In view of the apparent anxiety on the part of some Eastern interests to hamper and perhaps destroy the Hudson Bay route it is important that the people of the west give close attention to the representations which have already been made, follow them up and see to it that their interest in the project is not lost sight of.

Letter From The Queen

Robert Cranston, of Cheltenham, Ont., has received a letter from Queen Elizabeth acknowledging an unusual gift he sent her. Mr. Cranston made the gift, which was a small, frisk, from oak recovered from the battleship Missawaka sunk at the mouth of the Grand river in the war of 1812.

Lumber As Farm Crop
One advantage of having had over some other farm crops is that it does not have to be sold immediately in order to keep it from spoiling or deteriorating. If the market for fuel, fence posts, and lumber, or pulpwood, is low, the trees can be allowed to grow and increase in value.

Evoy From France

Says Relations Between Great Britain And France Have Never

Relations between Great Britain and France have never been better since the Great War, Count Robert de Dampierre declared at Ottawa on arriving to take up his new duties as minister to Canada from the French republic.

Coming to Canada, the minister said, was a particular pleasure to him because he "knew I would find only friends of France." He has recently been French minister to Yugoslavia, stationed at Belgrade, which he left in October.

He would not forecast what might happen in Europe, Count Dampierre said. In France, he said, there were "cray spots" as there were in other countries, and occasional violent incidents.

But when it comes to great questions—He added, "France speaks as one person." There has been ample evidence of the inherent solidarity of the French people, the minister said.

Arriving from New York, where he landed after a quick journey from Paris, Count Dampierre was greeted by representatives of the Canadian general, the Dominion government and the diplomatic circle.

The Count de Dampierre, a striking woman of French racial origin and a recognized poet, received a welcome and was the recipient of two bouquets from representatives of the French circle as she stepped from the train.

The Count, 37 years old, is a horseman and a former French army officer, yet previous diplomatic posts included two years in Japan and he left in 1919. He had never before visited in Canada.

"Aspirin" Trade Mark Protected

Bring Actions To Restrict Infringement—Aspirin and Acetaminophen

The Bayer Company Limited, having brought actions to restrain infringement of its registered trade mark "Aspirin" the Exchequer Court of Canada has given judgment against its five defendants. In each case the Exchequer Court has restrained the defendants from using the trade mark "Aspirin" on preparations, put out by themselves and awarded the Bayer Company costs and damages.

The defendants were marketing the infringing product under various names, including Pioneer Sales Co., Western Sales Co., Western Distributing Co., Advance Specialty Co., and Acme Specialty Company. The tablets labelled "Aspirin" were not of Bayer manufacture and were packed in small envelopes, each containing three or four tablets, and mounted on cards.

It is the intention of The Bayer Company, Limited, to take every legal method to uphold its trade mark.

"Aspirin" is the Trade Mark of The Bayer Company, Limited, Windsor, Ontario.

Deserved The Fine

A speeding motorist at Ripley, Derbyshire, drove through a pool of water at the side of the road and splashed two persons with muddy water, one of them a policeman in plain clothes. In court the motorist was fined 10s. and his license endorsed for driving without reasonable consideration for other persons using the road.

Noted War-Time Aviator

Captain Morley Carter, killed in Automobile Accident in Ontario
Captain Morley Carter, 48-year-old noted war-time flyer, killed in an automobile accident, near Barrie, Ont., was buried in Grifflin, with military and Masonic honors.

Capt. Carter enlisted in 1915 in the Royal Air Force. After training for several months he was sent to France for active flying and received decorations several times for distinguished service. He was one of four aviators to Italy to aid the Italians against the Germans and the four was the only one to reach the front.

After the war, Capt. Carter was with the Ontario air force patrolling "Rum" and making government surveys. He was also connected with the Dominion and Saskatchewan air force. A year ago he came over from Saskatchewan and has been with the Ontario air force since.

Should Advertise Wheat

Dr. Hind Advocates Fewer Acres And Larger Yields To Lower Price

Canada should send experts to world wheat countries, particularly Russia, "to keep us posted," Dr. C. H. Hind of Winnipeg, told the Women's Canadian Club at Toronto. "Russia and may be, increasingly a necessity to have the wheat market of the world," he said, adding the world could do without wheat unless the price is right.

Dr. Hind, speaking after a two-day globe-trotting trip to which he visited 27 countries, declared Canadian wheat should be produced on fewer acres with larger yields per acre and at lower cost. It should be sold at the world price.

Can Be Traced Back

Many Wines Commonly Used In Scotland Had French Origin

It is particularly in Scotland, formerly bound so intimately to France as during the Stuart times—that one can trace back a considerable number of French words which have passed into the popular speech. . . . Thus the Scotch "ranch" comes from "rancher," the word "squirre" from "famine," "sash" from "naselle," "casser" from "casser," The farm girl who calls her cow "cows" "Troocher" (approaches). So many Scotch words are connected with the national Scotch dialect, which is called haggis, and is really "haggis"—Le Devor, Montreal.

Increase In Auto Sales

The Dominion bureau of statistics reported Canada's October sales of new motor vehicles totaled 5,847 units at $6,523,231 against 4,921 at $4,400,475 in October, 1936, an increase of 45.4 per cent. in number and 42.7 per cent. in value.

A Valuable Shipments

Priceless Manuscripts Brought From England For Book Sale

Priceless manuscripts formed a valuable shipment, made recently by the C.P.R. The manuscripts were brought over from England via the "Empress of Britain." The parcel included the late Sir James Barrie's last work, entitled "The Boy David," one of John Drinkwater's manuscripts "Robinson of England," and C. S. Forester's "The Happy Return." These were displayed at the book fairs held in Toronto and Montreal.

Palestine Administration

Sir Harold Alfred MacMichael Has Received Appointment

Sir Harold Alfred MacMichael, veteran British administrator, was appointed high commissioner and commander-in-chief for Palestine and high commissioner for Trans-Jordan. He will succeed General Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope, whose resignation due to poor health was made known Oct. 28. The colonial administration of the new appointment would become effective at the end of February.

Sir Harold, governor and commander-in-chief of Tanganyika Territory, East Africa, since 1934, will succeed to the task of restoring peace to the Holy Land, where the long conflict of Arab and Jew has produced nearly two years of violence and bloodshed.

He has been in British government service in Africa 22 years and was intelligence and political officer of the British expedition which in November, 1916, recaptured Darfur.

Appointment of Sir Harold MacMichael to succeed Sir Arthur Wauchope, announced in London, was generally well received in Jerusalem. Sir Harold's deep knowledge of Arabic and his long experience with Palestine problems, Jewish leaders gave assurance they would offer the high commissioner full co-operation in the task of peacifying the Holy Land.

ALICE STEVENS' RECIPES

WATCH TEMPERATURES

THE DEEP-FAT FRYING

Doughnuts belong to the colder winter months. They are frowned upon by health people because they are considered hard to digest. They are not at all, and, in fact, children and invalids but an active person can digest doughnuts if he eats them in moderation. The temperature of the fat is most important. If the fat is too cold the doughnuts will be soggy and greasy. If the fat becomes too hot, it will burn the fat and the doughnuts will be hard. It should not be more than 350 degrees.

Test the temperature with a little of the doughnut mixture or with a little bread. A small cube of bread should turn a golden brown in 30 seconds, if raw foods are to be fried.

The kettle for deep-fat frying should be deep and should have heavy material. An iron one is best. It takes a long time to heat up but once it is hot it will stay hot. If the fat has been used several times, it is best to fry it in a new one. A few slices of raw potatoes and heat the oil. The potatoes will absorb some of the strong odor. Strain the hot fat through a cloth over a fireproof receptacle. Remove all the particles and pieces of burned food. Use the same fat for deep-fat frying. Some of the last batch may be used for vegetable oil. Even more satisfactory but a combination of the two is best. Fat rendered from poultry is excellent.

While you have a quantity of fat, fry some deep-fat frying, why not try some fritters? They are a variety of things and can be cooked the same manner. Fried up fruit are most popular. Fry them in the fat.

APPLE FRITTERS

1 cup flour
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup milk
1 egg
Mix and stir the dry ingredients, beat the egg and add the milk. Stir the wet ingredients into the dry ones. Add the apple which has been cut into small pieces. Drop by spoonful into the hot fat and fry like doughnuts.

To Counteract Stories

High Commissioner in London To

Contradict False Impressions

Of Western Canada

Accused by "sensational" articles and letters in the British press that the economic and social conditions in Western Canada, the office of the Canadian high commissioner in London has taken active steps to counteract the spread of false information.

Articles appearing in several daily newspapers purporting to deal with the actual state of affairs on the prairies. In these contributions the writers conjured up a picture of utter desolation and in some instances left the impression that the entire west had been reduced to an arid plain and its people numbered in the millions.

The charges were answered by the high commissioner's office in an article dealing with the true state of affairs, based on information supplied by the department of agriculture in Ottawa.

While admitting certain sections of the west, especially southern Saskatchewan, have suffered from the ravages of the prairie cycle, the article declared that from a financial point of view the west as a whole has recovered in one of the best years for a decade.

It refers to measures introduced to improve farm production, develop new resources, promote tree planting and other steps toward desirable adjustments in the use of land.

Accusations that the Canadian authorities have adopted an attitude of indifference toward the prairie of the West have lost spirit are branded as "groundless." Tribute is paid to the Canadian authorities for facing adversity with courageous courage. It is further pointed out only 1,000 of 10,000 families have left the drought areas of southern Saskatchewan.

Air Squadron For Calgary

Formation Of A Non-Permanent

Force Is Underway

Formation of a non-permanent squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force in Calgary, which will be recruited in the city, is underway. It was learned from officials of military district No. 13.

It was anticipated establishment of the non-permanent unit would be the first step to the stationing at Calgary of a permanent military flying force, possibly within a year. The number of men recruited for the non-permanent squadron, aviation authorities advised, would depend on the type formed in Calgary. There are three types—army co-operation, army co-operation, and army co-operation. At full strength a non-permanent unit would have 16 officers and 140 other men.

Training of a non-permanent flying section would be confined largely to ground instruction in technical and theoretical training. Allocation of vacancies in schools of practical training at R.C.A.F. base to personnel of the non-permanent unit would be likely if it was reported, until aircraft were brought here for permanent use.

Squadron Leader F. C. Higgins, based on the R.C.A.F. base at Ottawa, will open an office in Calgary shortly to direct military activities in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Burning 1,300 Years

An oil lamp, according to tradition, has been burning for the past 1,300 years in an old palace in Travancore, India. It commemorates a ruler of the state who is said to have succeeded to heaven while resting on a stone couch. The couch is preserved as an object of veneration.

WHAT HO!

By RICHARD CONNELL
By ATTORNEY-AT-LAW Thomas Adams, Publisher, Toronto.

"A sure, quick cure for blivens—no, that's not it. He was about to consign this letter to the flames, when he remembered. "Better keep it," he remarked. "One never knows when one might have blivens."

He rifled through the remaining mislaid, crumpled the bulk of them and picking them into a fire-place so wide and high that a hippopotamus could have been barbecued there.

"Funny," he said, "Always losing letters. I put this one in a safe place, and now I can't find the safe place. But no matter, I remember most of it."

"Tell us,"

"It seems," said the Earl, "that a certain millionaire would like to take the castle."

"Take it?"

"I mean to say rent it. He wants it for one month only."

"Odd idea," remarked Lady Rosa Bingley.

"Odd fish, from what I gather," said her father. "But dripping with currency. Made it himself, I believe, though just how MacKintosh did not say."

"What's his name?"

The Earl furrowed his brow. "Altkoon? No. Ely? No. Dixon? Phipps—no, that's our lathering friend. It could be Galscott. It isn't though. Whittman? Can that be it? Or is it Coleman?"

"Never mind, father."

"I won't," said the Earl. "He'll know his own name. Bound to."

"American, of course," said Duff-Hooper.

"I was afraid," said the Earl.

"Why?"

"A poisonous lot, American."

"Oh, come now," said the Earl. "You're a shrewd wonder if there are beasts of this American."

"It would surprise me to find one," returned the captain.

"Know many?" asked Lady Rosa Bingley.

"Enough," answered Duff-Hooper. "All impossible. Richer they are the more impossible they are, and judge that this one must be a prime specimen. I hate to think of Bingley crumpling with the creature. I'd rather it were better."

"If you knew a beetle with a thousand pounds, were we at once," said the Earl. "I don't myself recall the idea of letting Americans, or Britons, for that matter, camp here, but it is our one way to raise the wind."

"But, father," said Rosa, "will he pay a thousand pounds for just one month? That's a pretty odd sum."

"You're telling me," said the Earl. He said Duff-Hooper looked pained.

"I heard a chap say that in the States," explained the Earl. "It was a picture about a rather disreputable character who did not care for food and went about inspiring them on a sword-stick, like so many butterfly, you know. Another said individual told him that 'the best was on and he had better scream' and he replied—"

"Tell us more about the millionaire," said Rosa.

"Delighted to," said the Earl. "MacKintosh says he is extraordinarily keen on casting 'quint' cast-iron, in fact. He told Mac that he'd made up his mind when only a nipper that some day he'd have a castle of his own, and I infer that he's the sort of citizen who gets what he wants. He even spoke of buying the castle he liked it, France."

"But you wouldn't sell?" said Rosa, quickly.

"Stop my nose off with a dull bow before I'd do that," replied the Earl. "When does our millionaire arrive?"

"Any moment now," said the Earl. "He's on his way down from London."

"On the hypothesis he doesn't take the castle?" said Duff-Hooper.

"Must you be a killjoy, Rosa?" said the Earl. "Of course not. I'll have him down here. At least," he added, "I pray he will."

"But if he does not?" persisted Duff-Hooper.

"In that lamentable event," said the Earl, "I shall set out in business as a bachelor."

"I intend to be very nice to him," said Rosa. "As for you, Emma, no dirty looks."

"Rosa means," said the Earl, "no glowering or glaring. Can be help to him, but not to do an American."

After all he is going to give us a much needed leg-up. It will never do for him as if he'd come here to pinch the Bingley rubies."

"What rubies?" asked Lady Rosa.

"Just a figure of speech, my dear," said the Earl. "If we ever did give any they'd have gone up the spout long since. I can promise you, and now you might put that practical mind of yours to work on the problem of packing for a month's stay with sister Julia on the Isle of Man. Heaven help us all!"

"Will he want to move in immediately?"

"Such, I take it, is his intention," said the Earl. He sighed.

"I'd rather spend a month with a sister than with Julia. Why she must serve sheep-dip for port, I can't think. And her Yorgis! But she must be put up at an hotel, as it's his for the time of Man—if the car is still running? Is it?"

"Splendid. Well, tootle on down to Jolly Julia's tomorrow and leave our remoted friend to wallow in the hideousness of old Bingley. And of course, mind to show him where the bath-room is. If he couldn't find it during his month, he might be asked."

There was a tap on the library door.

"Crump," said the Earl of Bingley. "Only he has no discreet a knock."

He called out.

"Come in, Crump."

The butler entered. He was a slow and comfortable man. The years had extracted from his hair and added to his hair. He had been dressed in a bathing suit, toga, kimono, scrub, or drowsy outfit, he would still have looked like a butler. At the moment excitement rendered him a thought nervous.

"Beg pardon, m'lord," he said, "but there's a person behaving most queerly in the grounds."

"Is there really?" said the Earl, calmly. "Tell him not to, Crump."

"What is he doing?" asked Lady Rosa.

"Hugging a yew, your ladyship," replied Crump.

"He should not do that here," said the Earl. "Tell him I'm an animal-hater myself, but there is a place for everything."

"Who is he, Crump?" Lady Rosa asked.

"Not knowing, can't say," said Crump.

"One of Emma's horsey pals, perhaps," suggested the Earl.

"Oh, no, m'lord," said Crump. "I am positive that no friend of Captain Duff-Hooper would have a horse like that. Why, he appears to be intoxicated and he is trying to walk."

"Dear, dear," said the Earl, "that won't do at all, you know. Show him away, Crump, show him away at once. We are expecting an important visitor. Our millionaire's first visit of Bingley should not include a squally stranger wallowing with a horse."

MOTHER OF FIVE WHO WAS ALWAYS TIRED

Now Awake As Fresh As A Daisy

A mother of five has a lot to do, especially a country mother. And the one who was "always tired," Mrs. Kruschen, ended all that—now she gets up, feeling fresh, at five o'clock in the morning! She writes:

"I am the mother of five children, and the best thing money can buy for my health, I have found, is a good night's sleep. Before taking Kruschen, I was always feeling tired and run down. Now I feel fresh and I get up at five o'clock in the morning. I do my housework, look after my children, and leave the house at 6:30 to start my daily work." (Mrs. B.)

Timeless and that run-down feeling can be traced to one root cause: failure to keep the body free from poisons, waste matter.

Kruschen is an excellent recipe for maintaining a condition of mental cleanliness. The numerous salts in Kruschen stimulate your system, help you to sleep, and give you a new lease of life. It is a natural, allowed to accumulate, lower the whole tone of the system.

"Beg pardon, m'lord," corrected Crump, "but it is the beast which is intended to be used."

"I wish he wouldn't," said the Earl. He strode to the window and looked out.

"I wish I had a horse that could do tricks," he remarked wistfully. "If I hadn't been born an earl, I would have gone with a circus. And I may do so yet, Crump."

"Yes, m'lord?"

"Just give the fellow a shilling, thank him for his performance, tell him to liddle along elsewhere."

Crump folded out of the library. "I think, my dear Rosa," said the Earl, "that when our millionaire arrives you had better show him about the place. Would you mind?"

"You if you don't do an American?"

"You take a week to it, the way you tumble on."

"I do, rather humble, don't I?" said Rosa.

He marched to the fireplace. "Well, practice caring a bit," he remarked.

He stood with his back to the fire, his feet spread wide apart, his arms behind his back, and he contorted his usually vacuous features into an expression approaching haughty dignity.

"I'm that how early do it in the cinema?" he asked.

"Every look and act," laughed Rosa. "I know him."

Crump ceased his presence into the room.

"The person who was embracing the horse which was intoxicated and trying to walk is at the door," he exclaimed. "He states that he wishes to see the castle."

"Did he juggle, Crump?" asked the Earl.

"I heard no sound," said the Earl.

"To be an American?"

"Our millionaire," cried the Earl. "Four him in, Crump."

"At once, m'lord," said Crump. "But may I say that you are mistaken in supposing him to be a millionaire. He hasn't the look of one at all. He's young, and his clothes—well, m'lord, you saw his clothes!"

"So he did," said the Earl. "But what do clothes signify? Look at mine. Millions do not wear gold suits with diamond buttons, but they do."

"I am one of that, m'lord," said Crump, loftily.

"Besides," said the Earl, "Americans have their own ideas, you know. Some of them dress as if their tails were upholsterers. Trot him in, Crump."

"Excuse me, m'lord," said Crump, with a show of emotion, "but which I remind you of the object on which we arrived. Surely you recall his."

"Perfectly," said the Earl, glancing through the window. "He is even now munching my rose-garlands. Ask him not to, tell you, Crump?"

"Yes, m'lord."

But Crump did not go. "If," he said, "he is selling some thing and you buy it, m'lord, I hope you will not hold me responsible."

"I won't," answered the Earl. "Bingley. You see, you need not stand there looking like a beached porpoise. Roll him in."

Tarlan Started Romance

Couple Met At Exhibition In Dispute Over Name

A romance that developed from an argument over the name of a chalet at the Housing and Health exhibition in Kelvin Hall, Glasgow, has just come to an end.

When visiting the exhibition last year a man had a wordy dispute with an attendant at one of the stands regarding the name of a certain chalet.

The young woman, overhearing the argument, asked to be allowed to intervene, and she settled the dispute by pointing out that the name was right, and the victor won.

The sequel to this chance meeting was that the same day a couple called at the same stand. A couple called at the same stand. A couple called at the same stand. A couple called at the same stand.

He did, whereupon the couple laughingly told him that they were the other persons involved, and that they had been married a fortnight ago.

The young couple are now to go out to South Africa, where the bridegroom has received an appointment.

Would Be Great Saving

Paper Maché Mini Bottle Invented By London Man

A rejectable milk bottle that he says will save dairies thousands of dollars a year has been invented by A. W. T. Inglis, London, Ont., insurance agent and a resident of Windsor.

His latest summer, A. patent has been applied for but has not been granted. The bottle is made of paper maché or compressed pulp, lined with cellophane, and can be turned out by the thousands at less than half a cent each, Mr. Inglis said.

Two features that make it different from other disposable milk bottles in use are windows in the paper maché outer crust, through which the housewife can see how much milk is in the bottle and how much cream is on the milk, and a special construction which will permit use of ordinary milk bottle filters and caps.

The invention is shaped exactly like the present milk bottle.

Honor Boys All Returned

Were Allowed To Leave Industrial School For Holiday

John F. Gettman, superintendent of the State Industrial School for boys at Kearney, Neb., disclosed all six of the youths he released "on their honor" to go home for Thanksgiving (Nov. 28) returned to the institution at the specified time.

"We picked three of our best boys and then of our worst," Gettman said. "All six returned right on the dot when their holiday at home was over."

Of the female workers in the factories of Japan, it is estimated that more than a fifth are girls who are under the age of 16 years.

She: "What's the difference between dancing and marching?" He: "I dunno."

He: "I thought so."

Some Amazing Figures

Statistics About Telephone Show How Habit Has Grown

Statistics are dry enough, but there are some amazing figures about the telephone in the National Geographic Magazine.

New York has more telephones than France with its 43,000,000 people, Chicago has more than all North America, and Los Angeles more than all Africa.

There are 800 people telephoning from the Atlantic to the Pacific every hour. The telephone system of New York can pick up a telephone transmitter and get connection with anyone of 22,000,000. And that number is 68 per cent. of all the telephones of the world.

There are seventy countries introduced by wire or radio with the telephone system of Canada. Only Soviet Russia and New Zealand, also Greenland, are as yet unconnected with the world telephone network.

The United States records 85,000,000 phone conversations a day. The statistics do not give the number of letters in on the rural party line. Shog of Alexander Graham Bell—St. Catherine's Standard.

Early Pioneer

Picture Shows Early Saskatchewan's South Country Is Dead

Treble Bousen, who is said to be in 1859 and who has been a picturesque figure of Saskatchewan's south country for decades, died at his ranch near Willowbush, Sask. He was in his 74th year.

Bousen was in Regina during the winter of 1955 and was with his father when the body of Louis Riel, rebel leader, was delivered to the latter. In 1857 he went to Willowbush.

When Bousen first went into the south country, the remnants of Sitting Bull's Sioux warriors were camped near his ranch. Bousen became a lifetime friend of Jean Louis Bousen, trader and confidant of Sitting Bull, who eventually negotiated the surrender of the Sioux war chief to the American authorities.

Samples Are Rich

More Gold Has Been Found In Northern Areas

Valuable gold discoveries have been made in the Contact Lake area in northern Saskatchewan. Contact Lake is located between Stanley and La Ronge, about 200 miles north of Prince Albert. It is reported that prospectors in this district have traced a vein eight feet wide for more than 200 feet and have found outcroppings for an additional 600 feet. Samples of the ore assayed as high as $625 a ton.

Could Not Escape

The Sunday school lesson was about the wolf and the lamb. When the teacher had finished, he said:

"Do you see, my dear, if the lamb had been really good he would not have been eaten by the wolf?"

"That," said one little girl, "he'd have been eaten by us, wouldn't he?"

John Adams, second President of the United States, lived to see his son, John Quincy Adams, become the sixth President.

Tutankhamen is interpreted as meaning the living image of Amen, one of the Egyptian gods.
